Well, my first attempt at recording student lessons had limited success, to say the least. I think I successfully recorded only one "full" session with a student. The other times I tried recording the lesson I would only get about half of it before the recording program went south. Grrrr.

So this time, for sure! Riiiiight.

Seriously, this new App I got really seems promising. Since I'm still working out the kinks, I'll be recording the lessons as complimentary learning material for my students. Let me know what you think. I'm open to suggestions.
